The WebQuest Page (<http://edweb.sdsu.edu/webquest/webquest.html>)

This Website will serve as our "textbook" for this workshop. This site is designed to serve as a resource to those who are using the WebQuest model to teach with the Internet. It points to excellent examples as well as provides background information and resources to assist those who are interested in developing WebQuests. Bernie Dodge, the developer of the WebQuest, maintains this site.

Training Materials

This page provides a number of resources that guide you through the process of creating a WebQuest. It would be a good idea to explore as much as possible at this site to get a clear idea of what a WebQuest is and what you need to consider when creating a WebQuest. In this workshop, we will focus on

- Building Blocks for WebQuests
<http://edweb.sdsu.edu/people/bdodge/webquest/buildingblocks.html>
- reviewing WebQuest examples in the WebQuest About WebQuests <http://edweb.sdsu.edu/webquest/materials.htm>
- The WebQuest Design Process
<http://edweb.sdsu.edu/webquest/Process/WebQuestDesignProcess.html>
- Search Techniques
<http://edweb.sdsu.edu/webquest/materials.html>
- a Taxonomy of WebQuest Tasks
